

Management (not Food) is necessary for human and political survival.

Andrew will present on the agricultural capabilities of Indonesia and Australia and the critical role that both countries must play in regional food security. To achieve food security the proposed IA-CEPA must also ensure the free flow of agricultural management expertise. Most importantly all stakeholders in agribusiness, in both countries must continually focus on investing in world class management.